The high assessments on privately-owned land in or near the downtown business section and the high prices that would have to be paid for the purchase of such areas are given as

the major reasons for loss of hope for 10-cent parking, unless the District saw fit to spend large sums to subsidize the plan.

CITY PARKING LOT PLAN IS SHELVED

Municipally Owned Areas Would Be Prohibitive in Cost, Surveys Show.

Hope for provision of all-day parking on municipally-owned parking lots, at a price of 10 or 15 cents a day, has been virtually abandoned at the District Building as engineers tabulate cold calculations of the cost.

The bill, offered by Representative Dirksen, Republican of Illinois, is expected to die with this session of Congress, since it has not yet been reported out by the House District Committee.

The Commissioners have named a committee headed by Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways, to calculate the cost and submit recommendations. A month or two longer will be required to gather the necessary data, including figures on parking lot operations in other cities, Capt. Whitehurst said.

It is reported, however, that information so far at hand indicates that if any private land is purchased for parking lot purposes, and the cost amortized in 20 years, and if the revenue gained is to be at least equal to taxes now paid on such properties, the price for all-day parking would have to be 35 or 40 cents a day.

Capt. Whitehurst said his committee was not yet prepared to state what would be the possibilities if only Government-owned land were used for the proposed municipally-operated parking lots.

The high assessments on privately-owned land in or near the downtown business section and the high prices that would have to be paid for the purchase of such areas are given as the major reasons for loss of hope for 10-cent parking, unless the District saw fit to spend large sums to subsidize the plan.
